Bullish on lithium; Upgrade to Buy

Upgrade to Buy with PT Won500,000

We upgrade POSCO to Buy and raise our price target by 56% to Won500,000 as we turn constructive on its lithium assets, particularly POSCO Argentina operation on the back of our bullish lithium price outlook. We also view POSCO's JV with JSW to build a blast furnace (BF) in India as a positive strategic move, given India's long term structural steel demand growth. While the share price has begun to react, we do not believe these factors are fully reflected. In the near term, we expect 1Q26E results to miss market expectations, with 2Q26E likely to remain challenging; however, we think any resulting share price correction could be an attractive opportunity to accumulate the stock.

Turn positive on the lithium assets – Argentina to break even in 2026E

We value the Rechargeable Battery Materials division at US$9.4bn (was US$6.4bn) as we reflect higher lithium pricing on strong EV/ESS demand. Our recent Q-Series indicates US BESS demand to triple by 2030E, with Korean battery makers capturing 85% of the demand. This bodes well for POSCO as the only Korean lithium supplier with no China affiliation. We expect POSCO Argentina (brine) to complete phase 2 by Q426E, raising capacity to 50ktpa (+25ktpa), with phase 3 (+25ktpa) by 2029E using reserve acquired from LIS in 2026. We forecast Argentina to turn to profit in 2026E, while PLS (ore) remains loss making until 2029E given the high spodumene price. However, more than offsetting the PLS loss is POSCO's JV with Mineral Reserve which effectively secures c15% of Mt Marion and Wodgina spodumene volumes from H226.

Expect moderate steel upcycle, capped by China: but India JV positive

We value the Steel & Other divisions at US$12.8bn (was US$9.5bn), reflecting our expectation of a moderate upcycle through 2028E, with EBITDA/t peaking at historical average of US$124/t. While OECD leading indicators are improving, we expect Chinese exports to cap profit upside. Although regions such as India offer structural growth potential, we believe their scale is yet insufficient to alter the global steel balance. That said, POSCO is positioned to benefit from India's growth through its US$1bn JV with JSW (6mtpa BF in Odisha by 2031E). We also view POSCO's efforts to divest Won1trn non core or unprofitable assets by 2028 as supportive of longer term value creation.

Valuation: Undemanding, although weak Q1 is near term headwind

We view current 0.5x 2027E P/BV as undemanding given our bullish outlook on lithium - the previous energy materials rally lifted P/BV to c.0.8x in 2023. Still, we see near term headwinds given a weak Q1 – we expect OP to fall 9% short of consensus at Won513bn (–10% YoY), pressured by higher input and energy costs. We cut 2026E EPS by 24% to reflect Iran conflict-related impacts and a softer steel outlook but raise 2027–28E EPS by 9–51% to above consensus, driven by improving lithium pricing and cancellation of all 4.5% treasury shares. As a result, we raise our PT by 56% to Won500,000. Our SOTP-based PT implies 0.7x 2027E P/B.

UBS Research THESIS MAP a guide to our thinking and what's where in this reportPIVOTAL QUESTIONS*Q: Cost push is driving steel prices up. Will POSCO be able to keep steel prices high even if input cost falls thereafter?

Unlikely, given pressure from Chinese exports. We forecast steel EBITDA/t to fall to US$87/t in 2026E, the lowest since 2004. But we expect spread to recover to historic average by 2028E as market normalizes.

Q: Can lithium assets turn to profit in 2026-28E?

Yes. We expect strong lithium pricing, ramp up of Argentina brine operation and its investment in Mineral Reserve to more than offset the losses from PPLS. We forecast battery materials business pretax profit to break even in 2026E and rise to Won783bn profit in 2027E after Won443bn loss in 2025.

Q: Will FCF improve to increase shareholders' return in 2026-28E?

We anticipate negative FCF to continue in 2026E given investment budget guided at Won11.3trn vs EBITDA of Won6.8trn in 2026E. We anticipate POSCO to turn to slight positive FCF from 2027E but not sufficient to materially increase payout.

UBSVIEW

We are constructive on POSCO given its lithium assets, particularly the POSCO Argentina operation on the back of our bullish lithium price outlook. We also view POSCO's JV with JSW to build a blast furnace (BF) in India as a positive strategic move, given India's long term structural steel demand growth. This is in spite of our view of only a moderate steel upcycle until 2028E.

EVIDENCE

China Steel Corp (CSC) raised the steel price for 5 consecutive months in Jan-May due to cost push. But OPM had fallen to -1.0% in Feb2026 vs -0.3% in Jan2026. Import of Chinese steel to Korea 12.7% YoY in 3M26. SK On has signed a 25kt lithium deal with POSCO Argentina, to be supplied in 2026-2028. POSCO has been selling its lithium at a discount in the spot market. Of the Won11.3trn investment budget, Won6.8trn is steel (Won2.0trn BF in US, Won0.4trn JSW in India, Won0.3trn HSC in US, others include Hyrex), Won2.6trn Rechargeable Battery Materials, Won1.5trn in Infrastructure and Won0.4trn in others. Historically, POSCO deploys 70-80% of its investment budget.

WHAT'S PRICED IN?

We believe the market is beginning to price in the EV/ESS upcycle but has not fully reflected the upside potential. Furthermore, we believe a Q126E miss is not priced in.

Company Description

POSCO is the fifth-largest steelmaker in the world, producing 39mt of crude steel in 2025 (consolidated). Headquartered in South Korea, it primarily produces flat steel, with hot-rolled coil, cold-rolled coil and plates comprising a combined 85% of 2025 volume. Due to its scale and R&D in upstream processes, POSCO is one of the world's lowest-cost integrated mills.

Valuation Method and Risk Statement

Our price target for POSCO is based on SOTP methodology.

Key risks include: sustained strong restocking demand, structural changes in the steel market such as sustained output cuts in China, a rise in EAF capacity mix and China's export curtailment, and the early and successful ramp up of lithium operations. Other possible risks include dividends and investors' interest rotating to value sectors.

Investing in structured investments involves significant risks. For a detailed discussion of the risks involved in investing in any particular structured investment, you must read the relevant offering materials for that investment. Structured investments are unsecured obligations of a particular issuer with returns linked to the performance of an underlying asset. Depending on the terms of the investment, investors could lose all or a substantial portion of their investment based on the performance of the underlying asset. Investors could also lose their entire investment if the issuer becomes insolvent. UBS does not guarantee in any way the obligations or the financial condition of any issuer or the accuracy of any financial information provided by any issuer. Structured investments are not traditional investments and investing in a structured investment is not equivalent to investing directly in the underlying asset. Structured investments may have limited or no liquidity, and investors should be prepared to hold their investment to maturity. The return of structured investments may be limited by a maximum gain, participation rate or other feature. Structured investments may include call features and, if a structured investment is called early, investors would not earn any further return and may not be able to reinvest in similar investments with similar terms. Structured investments include costs and fees which are generally embedded in the price of the investment. The tax treatment of a structured investment may be complex and may differ from a direct investment in the underlying asset. UBS and its employees do not provide tax advice. Investors should consult their own tax advisor about their own tax situation before investing in any securities.

Important Information About Sustainable Investing Strategies: Sustainable investing strategies aim to consider and incorporate environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into investment process and portfolio construction. Strategies across geographies approach ESG analysis and incorporate the findings in a variety of ways. Incorporating ESG factors or Sustainable Investing considerations may inhibit the portfolio manager's ability to participate in certain investment opportunities that otherwise would be consistent with its investment objective and other principal investment strategies. The returns on a portfolio incorporating ESG factors or Sustainable Investing considerations may be lower or higher than portfolios where ESG factors, exclusions, or other sustainability issues are not considered by the portfolio manager, and the investment opportunities available to such portfolios may differ.
